SPEECH OF ATTORNEY BUSBEE

HE MAKES THE SECOND ABLE ARGUMENT AGAINST THE JUDGES.

Says the Whole Question Lies in the Issuance of a Peremptory Mandamus—They Do Not Deny Having Issued It, Was it a Violation of the Constitution or Not?

News and Observer.

At the afternoon session of the court only 34 Senators answered to the roll call.

Mr. Chas. M. Busbee now began the second speech for the prosecution. He referred to the importance of the case and said:

"Upon you rests a supreme duty, for you are the triers of the law and the facts. The constitution of this State is at issue in this trial—whether it is binding alone upon the Legislative and Executive departments, or whether the Judiciary also is included in its operation and requirements.

"I regretted, Senators to hear from the lips of counsel (Capt. Cooke) words that I thought exceedingly unfair and inappropriate. He proceeded to assail the gentlemen who brought these judges here for trial. He said that the Board of Managers were trying to degrade the high priests. He said that they were standing for tyranny, and that they were trying to degrade his clients. I regret these epithets. Speaking for the managers and yet not at their request, I desire to say a word in their behalf. They need not my defense, but I only speak that which all men do know when I say that no men ever brought a case into court with higher purposes of cleaner hands. Men of the highest character, all of them, they have the respect and confidence of the people of their State, in whose name they bring these proceedings before you."

The speaker also spoke of Capt. Cooke's reference to "influences at work in the Senate," saying, "I know of no such influences and I do not believe there is a Senator here that could be swayed by any sort of influences, either for or against the defendants."

Mr. Busbee contended that this case hinged entirely on the issuance of the writ of mandamus.

"If it was issued in defiance of law and contrary to the Constitution, then these Respondents are guilty. If it was issued in accordance with the law and the Constitution then they must stand justified before you and the people. No consideration of prejudice of pity can influence you in coming to your conclusion."

CAUSES FOR IMPEACHMENT.

Touching the independence of the Judiciary and charges on which judges may be impeached, Mr. Busbee read a number of authorities. He added:

"You'll find Senators, that it is held by all the authorities that the impeachment need not be for an indictable offense, but for any misconduct in office. It need not be a violation of any positive law, but is primarily directed to official misconduct.

"The purpose of impeachment is not punishment, it is simply to prevent Prevent what? A repetition of the offense. The law provides for the removal of the offender and having done that, the court can add, if it sees fit to do so, that other penalty—an inhibition from ever holding office in the State.

"Before I get through, Senators, I shall show to you that part of the offense of these judges has been the re-writing of portion of the legislation of 1899 and a bold, pure usurpation of the powers of a co-ordinate branch of the government."

At this point Mr. Busbee called attention to what he said was a remarkable omission in the answer of the Respondents. This was the judge's oath "to maintain and defend the Constitution." The other oath, "to do equal and exact justice" to all men, is set out in the answer.

"But," said Mr. Busbee, "it is for the violation of the other oath that these proceeding are brought, and it strikes me, Senators, as very strange that this particular oath of all should have been omitted and the other inserted."

Mr. Busbee now read the three sections of the constitution alleged to have been violated by the judges. Commenting on these, he adds:

"They have not kept the three departments of the government separate and distinct.

"They have assumed jurisdiction when they had no jurisdiction, and have issued a process in the nature of an execution.

"They have forced the public Treasurer to pay money when there was no law on the statue books authorizing him so to do."

ISSUANCE OF A MANDAMUS.

Mr. Busbee now discussed the nature of a mandamus and when and how it may be issued under the law.

"A mandamus can be issued on a State officer, not to make him pay the debt, but to compel him to obey the law.

The speaker defined "claims against the State" as contemplated by the Constitution, and said there was no difference between a debt due by the State for salary and that due on a contract for work. "Both are claims against the State."

He here read from the decision in Blount vs. Simmons, 119 N. C.

"It is well established that a suit against an officer is a suit against the State, and no suit can be tolerated against a State officer unless it be to make him comply with a statute of the Legislature."

"Now did these respondents violate the Constitution?

"Did they issue the mandamus? They did, they don't deny it.

"Was it a claim against the State? It was and was in violation of Article 4, section 9, and Article 14, section 3, of the Constitution."

Bain vs. Jenkins, 66 N. C. 356, was cited to show the evil of extending such jurisdiction.

"Why Senators, if the Supreme Court has such jurisdiction as it exercised in White vs. Auditor, the Superior court has the same jurisdiction, and if this Court of Impeachment shall endorse this action of these judges the decision will rise again to plague you. Hereafter a writ from the lower courts will do the same dangerous work that this writ from the higher court has done."

"Do you not realize how far-reaching may be your decision here?

"So much for the first article. The second Article says the Supreme Court usurped legislative power and authority."

THE OYSTER LAW.

Referring to the "Oyster Laws" of 1897 and 1899, Mr. Busbee said "around these acts the gage of battle rages."

He read them and called attention to the language of the Supreme court in construing them.

"The judges in their decision studiously avoid saying that White was authorized to render the services under the provisions of this act (Chapter 21, 1899). And why? Because they could not say it. But instead they say he rendered the services under the act.

When they said that they usurped legislative power; they wrote in the act words that the Legislature did not put

To Look Over the Field.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cobb and Miss Cobb, left last night for Havana, Cuba, going by way of Tampa, Florida. Mr. Cobb is connected with the American Tobacco Company, and it is reported that he goes to Cuba to complete the transfer of a large Cuban cigar factory to the American Cigar Company. This, Mr. Cobb denies to be true, stating that he goes merely to look over the tobacco situation there.

The party will be absent about a month.

Mr. H. F. Coble, of the L. Richardson Drug Company, went to High Point this morning.

THE GOLD BRICK MEN ON TRIAL.

THE FONG SHINING BAR OF GOLD SHOWN IN COURT.

It was Carefully Wrapped Up and Well Cared For—The Goods All Now in the Hands of the County Coroner—The Men Heard.

Not in a long time has this city been possessed of so interesting a case in the way of crookedness as is furnished by that of the gold brick men, who plucked in the enactment of what they considered a well night finished game, spent last night in Guilford jail. Talk of their arrest and their schemes has filled the air since the posse yesterday afternoon rode in town with the men. It appeared more than passing strange crooks as they have undoubtedly been, should ply their trade in successful defiance of sharp detectives and officers, and they be so skillfully nabbed down here in the country where they doubtless came for the purpose of having an easy time.

There was no hearing of the case yesterday afternoon, but the case was set for ten this morning, but this morning it was again postponed, till three o'clock this afternoon. The men secured the legal services of Maj. Stedman, G. S. Bradshaw and W. P. Ragan, while the prosecution is being conducted by King & Kimball. The brick men were held over night by warrants charging them with carrying concealed weapons, having property believed to have been stolen, and counterfeiting instruments. There are three men in jail, and two more are thought to have belonged to gang, but made their escape. One of the men gave his name as Howard. He is a heavy set fellow, long hair and stubby beard. He is the one who went out with Mr. Garrett. The man who played Bono, the Indian, says his name is A. L. Daley; he is also a heavy set fellow, clean shaven and dark. The other man, who passed as H. D. Hawley, an assayist, who was to pass upon the quality of the gold dust bored from the bricks, has all the appearances of a professional crook. He is medium size, sandy hair and Van dyke beard. He was arrested by Mr. Garland Daniel and Sheriff Jordan at the Guilford just as the others were being brought in town. He registered at the Guilford, from Danville, on Tuesday. The story of their attempted deal with Mr. Garrett is highly interesting. Why they attempted to work him he does not know. The game is an old one, and it is surprising that they should have attempted to play it upon a man of Mr. Garrett's evident intelligence. This gentleman is a wine dealer, and a man of high intelligence, and as this case shows, of nerve.

Wednesday morning of this week Mr. Garrett received a call at his office in Weldon from a rough and uncouth man, who introduced himself as Frank Thompson, an Arizona miner who had recently struck it rich and who had come east in search of a former partner, with whom he was to share his suddenly acquired wealth. The name of the former partner was Andrew Garrett, of Charlottesville, Va. The poor fellow, however, had died, announced the Arizona miner with a tear in his voice, and he was looking for Andrew's brother, who he had been told, lived in Weldon.

Mr. Garrett was suspicious of his caller and believed that he had run against a confidence man. He appeared interested however, and offered to assist the stranger in any way he could, in the hope that he could turn him over to the law. Thompson, who professed to be very ignorant and to know but little of the world, said he was sad, in need of a partner to conduct the business end of the mine, since it was turning out so well. He was well pleased.

ed with the appearance of Mr. Garrett and offered to give him a third interest in the business. Mr. Garrett, apparently, was greatly interested and readily accepted the proposition. He was to visit the mine once or twice a year and attend to the clerical end of his business, while the property was to be worked for all it was worth by Thompson and another partner, an Indian by the name of Gomez Bono. Mr. Garrett's interest in the business was also to extend to four gold bricks, two of which were in Arizona and two in the possession of Gono, who was at a camp in the woods near Greensboro. Thompson, who feigned illiteracy, had Mr. Garrett figure out the cost of an up-to-date mining outfit. An appointment was then made for Mr. Garrett to come to Greensboro today to examine the gold bricks, meet the Indian and close the deal, after which they were to proceed to Philadelphia, sell the bricks and buy the mining machinery.

Mr. Garrett, who was sparing for time, feigned an important business engagement in Norfolk as the reason for not coming to Greensboro Wednesday. Thompson was to return to Greensboro, interview his Indian partner, and if every thing was satisfactory with the latter, he was to telegraph Mr. Garrett to come on. Mr. Garrett wrote out the telegram he was to receive in these words: "Bono is willing. Come." After the departure of Thompson Mr. Garrett engaged Mr. H. A. Mims, of Weldon, to come to Greensboro and acquaint the officers with the presence of the confidence men. He sent a letter to Mr. A. C. Patterson, revenue agent for this district, informing him of what was up and asking him to be prepared to capture the proprietors of the gold bricks. Mr. Garrett proceeded to Norfolk and received Thompson's telegram Thursday afternoon. Yesterday morning he came to Greensboro, arriving here at noon. He was met at the depot by Thompson, and together they went to the McAdoo hotel for dinner.

After dinner they procured a buggy and started to the camp, where the Indian was with the bricks. Mr. Garrett learned from Thompson, or Howard, whichever his name is, the place of the socalled camp before dinner. They did not eat together, the man evidently wishing to use that time in consulting with his confederates. Mr. Garrett used it in eating and telling Mr. Patterson where the camp was. Messrs. Patterson and Mims went along ahead in such a way as to not attract attention. Sheriff Jordan and Deputy Weatherly followed in the same way, others following also, a little later.

The plan between Mr. Garrett and the crooks was to weigh the bricks, bore them, bring the dust to town, and have Hawley, who was posing as a government assayist, to assay the metal. Between Mr. Garrett and the officers it was understood that the attack was to be made while Mr. Garrett was stooping to bore the brick, so that if shooting was necessary they could have a clean sweep without danger of hitting him.

Reaching the spot Howard proceeded to consult with the Indian, some forty feet away in the bushes. He came back and reported that Bono was willing to the plan, and Mr. Garrett stooped to bore. Just then Mr. Patterson had gotten in distance of the Indian and called on him to throw up his hands. Howard heard this voice and was not sure of what it was and sprang up preparatory to drawing his gun. Mr. Garrett told him that it was nothing, but he was not satisfied. Then Mr. Garrett told him that if he attempted to shoot they would both be killed, and began to upbraid the fellow for torturing him home and getting him into trouble. By that time Mr. Jordan had come up and taken charge of the Indian, and Mr. Patterson ran to Mr. Garrett and Howard. Garrett still played innocent. Mr. Patterson said "I'm an officer, surrendered". Mr. Garrett had all the time had his pistol.

THE ALDERMEN LAST NIGHT

BUSINESS WAS HEAVY AND BOARD WILL MEET TONIGHT.

People Are Anxious to Get Streets Worked and Present Petition With Many Conditions Attached.

Mayor Taylor presided last night at the Alderman's meeting and a full board was present with the exception of Mr. J. W. Scott, who is yet in Florida.

G. R. Culp's application to sell liquor by retail at 340 South Elm street, came up for consideration. Maj. Stedman appeared in behalf of certain citizens and filed a petition asking that license be not granted for use at the place designated above. Mr. R. R. King presented the side of Mr. Culp, the applicant. After hearing from each, a vote was taken, which resulted as follows: Ayes, Ellington, Merrimon, Sergeant, Sherwood; Noes, Boyd, Hunter, Joyner, Denny, Elam, Love, Lewis.

The application of G. A. Miller, for license to sell liquor at Newcombe's old stand, came up for discussion and settlement. Mr. Miller and his attorney, Mr. R. R. King, said that E. G. Newcombe had absolutely nothing to do with the business, and upon this statement the application was recommended to the county commissioners. The vote was as follows: Aye, Boyd, Elam, Ellington, Joyner, Merrimon, Sergeant, Sherwood; Noes, Denny, Hunter, Love, Lewis.

Mr. J. N. Wilson, counsel for the board of county commissioners, stated that on the second prox there would be a meeting of the county Health Committee, for the purpose of discussing the matter of sanitary conditions along the creek from the city water works plant to the Carpet Mill, and requested the city, an property owner along the route to send a representative to the meeting. Mayor Taylor was asked to represent the city.

A committee of citizens, among them Messrs. W. T. Smith, G. Will Armfield, C. N. Mebane, Dan Huffines, J. H. Rankin and others presented a petition from property owners on Ashe street, asking that said street be widened, graded, curbed and macadamized from Lee street to West Market street. The petition was referred to the street committee with instructions to widen and grade it as soon as possible, if the right of way is given by citizens along the route, without conditions.

A petition was presented by Mr. John M. Dick asking that North Elm street be graded from Price street to Smith or Schenck street, beyond the Catholic church. Referred to the street committee.

A petition was presented asking for the widening, grading and curbing of West Lee street was presented. Joyner moved that the street committee be authorized to widen and grade West Lee, work to begin at as soon as possible. Carried.

W. D. McAdoo asked for the working of a new street in the rear of the old Methodist graveyard. Referred to the street committee.

A petition signed by a number of the sign painters of the city asked that a tax of $10 be placed on the trade of sign painting in the city. Petition was cheerfully granted with a unanimous and spontaneous way unheard of.

Alderman Merrimon offered an amendment to Sec. 4 of the recent ordinance regarding the location of bars, in so far as it applies to the court house and city market, leaving it so that bars may be opened in the vicinity of the court house or city market. Carried.

Alderman Elam stated that the Hook and Ladder Company wished to tender to the city two horses recently purchased by the company. Horses were accepted, and the city will care for the horses.

Policeman R. E. Pearce filed his resignation as a member of the force, to take effect March 24th. It was accepted. The police committee, the mayor and the chief of police were instructed to elect a successor, who will serve one month.

The board will meet tonight, business not having been finished at last night's meeting.

JUDGE DAY AUTHOR OF THE PARK IDEA

Wm. E. Curtis in Chicago Record.

Asheville, N. C., March 14.—They tell me here that William Rufus Day, of Canton, Ohio, formerly secretary of state and chairman of the real estate commission which purchased "our newly acquired possessions" in the Philippines from the King of Spain, was the first to suggest the idea of making a national park or forest reserve of that group of mountains which lies where North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina and Georgia come together. Judge Day came down to Asheville to recover his health after he returned from Paris in 1899 and drove around through the Blue Ridge so thoroughly that he became familiar with this extraordinary country. He saw its importance to the water supply of the central states, for here most of the rivers of that section rise, and he learned that the timber-covered mountains were passing rapidly into the hands of lumber companies which are now stripping them of the valuable trees.

The enterprising people of Asheville seized upon Judge Day's suggestion eagerly and in November last organized "the Appalachian National Park Association," composed of citizens of many states who are familiar with the surrounding country, and appealed to Secretary Wilson, who approved the scheme, made an investigation and submitted to congress a bill for the purchase of 2,000,000 acres lying on either side of the boundaries of the states I have named at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000. The president indorsed Secretary Wilson's bill and sent it to congress with a favorable message, but it came too late to receive any attention at the session that has just closed. In the meantime the association is growing in strength and influence, and is educating the public in the knowledge of the country and the necessity of preserving it as far as possible in its natural state.

The 2,000,000 acres which Secretary Wilson proposes to purchase would include the noblest assemblage of mountains east of the Rockies—40 peaks higher than Mount Washington, 43 above 6,000 feet; 82 above 5,000 feet. They form a succession of ranges like billows of the sea—the Balsam, Black, Craggy and Great Smoky ranges they are called of what are familiarly known as the Blue Ridge mountains. Mount Mitchell is the highest peak—6,711 feet. Clingman's peak is the highest of the Smokies, rising 6,666 feet. All of these ranges have a luxuriance of undergrowth that is not exceeded elsewhere within the limits of the United States.

Six Recruits Rejected.
Asheville Gazette.

There have been 18 enlistments at the recruiting station here since it was opened. "Asheville is a pretty good recruiting point," Corporal P. J. Watkins, who has charge of the station, says. Grayson H. Silver, Samuel M. Jettis and S. Britt, who have recently enlisted, left yesterday for Fort McPherson, Ga.

The other morning six dusty and travel stained pedestrians walked into the recruiting office. They had tramped all the way from Haywood county to enlist.

Corporal Watkins began asking the usual questions to determine their qualifications. Were any of them married? Four of them answered in the affirmative. "That quartet is barred," said the corporal with a sigh, for they were strapping big fellows, one of them a giant—six feet six, and weighing 220 pounds. It came out that the other two could not read or write; so they, too fell down.

Then the six Haywood men departed, to retrace their forty mile tramp.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of static or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

Theophilus White is the only man in this whole business that has come out ahead. The democratic claimants lost their case, the legislature failed to effectuate its purposes and the Supreme court got into hot water.—Winston Journal.

Our contemporary leaves out one factor in the equation, to-wit: The democratic party. Great danger, if not absolute disruption is likely to be its portion.

SPEECH OF ATTORNEY BUSBEE.

there. "And again, Senators, the judges usurped legislative power when they prescribed a different method for the certification of bills."

He explained the method of certification provided by the Legislature—that the bill shall be approved by the secretary of the board and countersigned by the chairman.

"But," continued Mr. Busbee, "the court abolished the board—had to do it to put White in."

"Well, of course there could then be no 'secretary of the board'—there being no board there could be no 'secretary to the board.' But White appoints one of his deputies as his secretary and he approves the bills, and White countersigns them. And how does he sign them—not as 'chairman of the board' as the law provided, but he signs them sometimes as 'C. I. S. F. I.' (Chief Inspector of the Shellfish Industry), and at other times simply as 'chairman': Chairman of what? No board was left. Chairman of nothing. The title is simply left to show that after the court had amended and rewritten the act they left it in such a condition that it could not be carried out."

Mr. Busbee now referred to the resolution of inquiry passed at the special session of the Legislature in June, and to Judge Clark's dissenting opinion and protest and said:

"These Respondents had plain, definite, precise information as to the intent of the Legislature. And yet these Respondents went ahead and said they would do this thing no matter what may be the consequences. Now, Senators, it is with you to say whether you endorse such action or not."

"So I will say, and the facts will bear me out, that these defendants did issue this mandamus in defiance of the will of the Legislature, and they did it knowingly."

At this point Mr. Busbee returned to a discussion of proceedings for mandamus and contended that failure to verify the complaint in White vs. Auditor was fatal. He cited Belmont vs. Riley, 71 N. C., 260, and Rogers vs. Jenkins.

"I charge nothing against the attorneys in that case, but I charge the State Treasurer with a neglect of his duty in regard to the moneys in his keeping. And these Respondents knew that this proceeding was not regularly constituted. They knew that they did not have jurisdiction even to pass up a writ of habeas corpus less to issue this great writ to unbar the doors of the Treasury."

Mr. Busbee read the judgment in White vs. Auditor and argued that there was not one word in that directed that the writ issue. He asked:

"I ask you Senators, isn't it misconduct in office for a judge to order the clerk to issue a writ, or advise him to do it—a writ that unlocks the doors of the treasury and takes out money when the judgement on which it is issued does not justify it? They can't get their authority to issue it from the judgement of Starbuck, because if that were so the writ would have been issued from the court of Wake county. The only authority they can have is from the face of this judgment in White vs. Auditor, and it was on this it was issued."

"When you come down to the cold, hard facts you can't get around it—these Respondents have issued this great writ without authority and in the teeth of the law!"

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

[CONDUCTED BY THE LOCAL UNION.]

Have you a boy to spare? The saloon must have boys or it must shut its shop. Can't you find one? It is a great factory and unless it can have 2,000,000 from each generation, for raw material, some of these factories must close up, and the operatives be thrown out upon a cold world, and the public revenue dwindle! One family out of every five must contribute a boy in order to keep up the supply. Will you help? Which of your boys shall be? Are you a father? Have you given your share to keep up the supply for this great public institution that is helping pay your taxes and kindly electing public officers for you? Have you contributed a boy? If not some other family has had to give more than its share. Are you selfish? Voting to keep the saloon open to grab up boys and then doing nothing to keep up supply? Ponder these questions, ye voters, and answer them to God, to whom you will one day give an account for votes as well as prayers. And ye mothers, wives and daughters, are ye by precept, example and influence in every possible direction doing all you can to say the boys from the enticements of the horrible liquor saloon, and to hasten the day when it shall be outlawed, and curse our fair land no more.

WESTERN RAILROADS AND DRINK

Many of the Western Railroads have issued rigid rules concerning the use of liquor and tobacco on the part of their employees.

The Wabash Railroad has forbidden its workmen to even enter a place where liquors are sold. The Burlington, Alton and Rock Island roads in their new regulations provide that any employee who uses liquor or frequents saloons will be dismissed. The Burlington also forbids the use of tobacco by operators, ticket agents, and passenger train men on duty.

The Rock Island recently issued an order forbidding the use of cigarettes. The Memphis followed with the same order. The big Santa Fe opposes the cigarette and drink orders and refuses to employ men with either habit.

Experience warns the railroad company that men who drink at all are not trustworthy employees. Thus the toils close more and more tightly around the American saloon.

Misses Lottie and Sarah Harris went to Raleigh this morning to visit friends. They will return Monday.

AN HONEST MEDICINE FOR LA GRIPPE.

George W. Wait, of South Gardiner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grippe and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grippe have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by A. E. Holton's drug store.

Poor Indeed

are those weighed down by mental depression, often seen in the world through buoyant nerve force. The loss of this force daily drags down to failure some of the world's brightest minds. You prefer health and success to misery and failure.

It will give you a wise Wine of Cardui. It

Mrs. MINNIE STODGHILL.

MCREE'S
Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles", other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means agony backache, and shoulder ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues—despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating drains that the doctors call leucorrhoea. It means martyrdom—sometimes even death seems preferable. And still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable Wine is a blessing.

FOR CHILDREN

Nothing, that comes in a bottle, is more important for children than Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil. And "important" means that it keeps them in even health, on the highest plane of physical life.

"Do they live on it then?"

No; they don't touch it, except when they need it.

"When do they need it?"

Whenever they show, in whatever way, the least disturbance of even balance of health. It is not for acute diseases, with some exceptions; it is for a slight falling off from first-rate condition.

It is to be used as a food whenever their usual food does not quite answer the purpose of food.

Mr. Carnegie's Gift.

Philadelphia Record.

By the munificent offer of $5,200,000 to the city of New York for library purposes Mr. Andrew Carnegie has justified his recent assertion that he has just begun his work of building libraries. The consolidation of the Astor, the Lenox and the Tilden foundations, to occupy a magnificent building at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, has assured to New York a great central public library; but this will not meet the demand for neighborhood institutions. It is the purpose of the Carnegie gift to provide for sixty-five branches to be associated with the central collection. Unlike the ordinary founder of a gift library, Mr. Carnegie does not deprive the community in any instance of a direct interest in the creation and support of the establishment. With the idea of getting the most for his money, the ironmaster imposes the condition that the city shall provide an appropriate site and annually vote a specified sum for the support of the library, his own donation being devoted to the erection of the building. Mr. Carnegie has assumed that when the people of a community become possessed of a fine housing for a library they will be inspired to make the book collection harmonize with the edifice; that the real test of a popular demand for a public library is the willingness of the people to bear a considerable share of the first and ultimate cost.

There can be no doubt that in most communities the public spirited citizens would favor the expenditure of a large sum (larger than would be voted for library purposes otherwise) in order to enjoy the gift of the same amount. By adopting his policy Mr. Carnegie has built up a library interest in many communities where a public library tax would have been opposed and defeated. Long after the personal peculiarities of the voluminous millionaire shall have been forgotten the influence of his gifts will continue to benefit the world. Many noble causes appeal to the benevolent rich, but the astute Scotch-American chose well in making libraries his main concern. He has wisely reasoned that anything which will cultivate a taste for the reading of books, either for general culture or for practical knowledge, is hard enough as it is. It is to her that we owe our world, and everything should be made as easy as possible for her at the time of childbirth. This is just what must be an ever increasing source of good to mankind. The career of many persons must depend on whether a public library is a conspicuous institution of the community—a centre from which is radiated a humanizing and refining influence.

covering Thompson, who was not aware of it. When Thompson discovered that Mr. Garrett had played him, he said never a word, but he looked "Well, I'll be d—d." When the reticent chieftain was captured, Mr. Patterson unceremoniously relieved him of his long hair and copper skin mask. And they all came back to town, Thompson and the ex-Indian handcuffed together.

This morning Mr. Garrett sued out a writ of attachment against the belongings of the men, including $400 cash found on their persons, all of which was in the sheriff's hands. The writ was for one third interest in all the property, on the ground that he had made a trade for it and owned it. The papers were put in the hands of Dr. J. P. Turner, the county coroner, he being the only officer who can serve a writ on a sheriff. He took possession of the property, and the case, which is a civil one, was set to be heard at the June term of Superior Court. The object of this is simply to keep the money and goods in the hands of the officers so that the men cannot use them in furnishing bond to get out of jail on in the criminal cases against them. They are believed to have a good deal more of money hid out or in possession of confederates.

The trial was called at 3 o'clock before Justice Eckel. An immense crowd was present. The court room was absolutely packed, aisles, bar, and every inch of space. There never was a bigger crowd in the court house because they couldn't get in, and the utmost interest prevailed.

The prosecution announced that they would make a charge of conspiracy to defraud Mr. Garrett and try all the men together. The counsel for the defence made affidavit for removal, and Squire Eckel set the case before Squire Wolfe, to be heard at once. Squire Wolfe took the chair, and the trial began. Mr. King announced that solicitor Brooks had been asked to help in the prosecution and Mr. Brooks appeared. Mr. Garrett was put on the stand and told the story about as related. He threw a good deal of vim into it and kept the big crowd mirthful. One of the gold bricks was produced in court. It is nearly twenty inches long, by four wide and two thick. Of course it is a worthless imitation.

The point in the game where the men intended to flee Mr. Garrett, was in getting him to put up $4,000 or $5,000 to buy out the Indian's share, in case he was contrary.

The case is still being heard when the Telegram goes to press. Of course the men will be held.
